HENDRICKS COUNTY, IN – Zach Rice shared his view for a common sense, people-focused, and innovative leadership approach in the Indiana General Assembly at Indiana University's School of Public and Environmental Affairs (SPEA) Graduation Dinner and Program.

“I was honored to be asked to speak by Dr. Lindsey [Associate Dean of SPEA], and I was delighted to address the future leaders of our Community,” said Mr. Rice. “It was a great opportunity to explain the importance for graduates to be engaged in public service and civic affairs.”

The dinner and program was held on Friday, April 18th at the Crowne Plaza Hotel at Union Station. Attendees were provided the perfect opportunity to celebrate their graduation with faculty, family, and friends. Commencement ceremonies will be held on Sunday, May 11th. Zach Rice discussed his experience while working toward his Masters in Public Affairs and Policy, how his degree has been useful in his career and public service, his motivation for running for public office, and advice to those embarking on their careers.

“SPEA is a breeding ground for future leaders. Providing them employment opportunities in the State is vital to getting this talented, educated group of individuals active in public service and civic affairs to the benefit to the entire State,” explained Rice. “SPEA graduates have the knowledge and experience to make positive impacts in our communities.”
